LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Colesberg Kopje Diamond Mine (he observes) is really at this moment one of the worders of the world; it contains, I maintain, the largest number of workers in a small space that has been seen in any modern work, and I cannot call to mind any enterprise, excepting the Egyptian Pyramids, where it can have been necessary for such a swarm of human beings to be so closely herded together. Can any of your correspondents cite a few instances? The Kopje is not now so busy as it was some time ago—I will say in October, 1872—when there cannot have been less than 20,000 men employed in a space occupied by 2,500 claims of thirty feet square each. The actual present value of the mine is estimated at £1,000,000; three months ago it was valued at £2,000,000, but claims have fallen sixty per cent. It is pro-Currous .- In some parts of Asia they have a funny way of conducting their negotiations for the purchase of commodities. When a customer sees an article he wants to purchase buyer and seller join hands, over which a cloth is thrown, and the bargaining is done by signs communicated by the hands. The parties in he mean time carrying a conversation on indifferent subjects. Here in Pioche on indifferent subjects. Here in Pioche some folks attempt to make bargains in a still mere singular manner, viz: By the would be purchaser putting a head on the seller, if the latter does not agree to the former's terms. An instance of this peculiar system occurred yesterday. A dealer in second hand articles wished to the former's terms. An instance of this peculiar system occurred yesterday. A dealer in second hand articles wished to purchase a counter of a storekeeper. The latter put a price on it, which the buyer thought too much and offered a less sum, when on being refused, he at once abused and struck the storekeeper a severe blow. At any rate that is how the matter was represented to us. The affair seems somewhat extraordinary, but as the matter will be investigated to-day before the Justice of Peace we shall make no comments which might tend to prejudice the defendant, though unless a different state of facts are proved we certainly have a very strong opinion.

The Weather.—Yesterday was a fine, clear cold day, and if we do not have any more storms, we may hope soon to have better roads and streets. At present they are fearful, and are the cause of more profamity than all the rest of the inconveniences of the season put together. It does not make one feel prayerful when after picking your way through the half forcer slush, a spot that more profamity than all the rest of the inconveniences of the season put together. It does not make one feel prayerful when after picking your way through the half frozen slush, a spot that looked firm and reliable proves treacherous, and you sink ankle deep in a cold conglomerate of ice and mud.

Ospenly.-Pioche is becoming as orderly and well conducted, if not quite as pious as a New England town on a Sun-day. The dull times makes our citizens pious as a New England town on a Sun-day. The dull times makes our citizens good natured and forbearing, and scarce-ly a ripple appears on the surface to vary the orderly monotony of well-doing. This is good for our citizens, but is death on local items.

MINING REVIEW.-We are now gatherdata for our Week Mining Review, and if those who have mines in charge will favor us with such information as they may desire to impart, either to-day or early to-morrow, they will oblige us greatly.

DUMPED .- In our peregrination yesterday we were the witness of the downfall of a load of wood which caused the driver to indulge in expressions not adapted to a prayer meeting.

YESTERDAY the fine weather brought out a good many of our citizens, and in spite of the execrable condition of our streets, the town looked more lively than it has done for some time past.

JUDGE FULLER .- We are pleased to find that this gentleman has almost entirely recovered from his late severe at-
